

Welcome to 2011

It's hard to believe it's February already. Where did January go? We're gearing up for another big year with Project Numbat and I'd like to say thank you for your support. Without our members, we wouldn't be able to get very far.

There's been some positive news about the progression of our application to be a Registered Environmental Organisation and become a Tax Deductible Gift Recipient. It's getting near the final stages so watch this space.

Finally, I hope you like our new look newsletter. We're hoping to send these out more regularly to keep you informed about what's happening.

Numbat Knowledge

School is back in full swing and the Project Numbat Primary School Program is perfect for teaching kids about our state mammal emblem and what can be done to save it from extinction. The program includes a presentation, lesson plan, activities and resources – all FREE – which can be downloaded from our website. If you're a teacher, check it out. If you're a parent, suggest it to your child's teacher. Everything they need is right there.

Numbats in the Newspapers

Thanks to Community News, Project Numbat is appearing in local newspapers – free of charge! Community News offers free advertising to not-for-profit groups when space is available. We've produced four ads and since sending them in last December, they've been popping up all over the place and they're working. We've had a number of new members over the past month who have joined after seeing the ads. It's so far been a great way for us to get in touch with a wider audience. If you see them in your local paper, leave a comment on the 'Numbats in the Newspapers' post on our website.

Looking for a good drop?

If you're thinking of buying wine, why not try Frankland Estate Wines? They've got a great selection of reds and whites available and if you purchase using the special order form on our website, Project Numbat receives 25% of the sale. So next time you need a decent bottle of wine, buy Frankland Estate Wines. The order form can be downloaded from our website (just click on merchandise).

Did you know...

Numbats eat about 20,000 termites every day! They eat so many they don't need to drink water.
